

A SIMPLE WAY TO SELL MORE FOOD

Guests order food from their room by scanning a QR code.

Every room gets a QR code. Guests scan it, choose from your menu with photos, and you bring the food to the room.

✗ No phone calls

✗ No wrong room numbers

✗ No app to download

HOW IT WORKS

From QR code to food at the door, in 6 simple steps.

A QR code in every room

Each code belongs to one room, so the system always knows where the order comes from.

Guest scans it with the phone camera

Android or iPhone. Nothing to download, no account to create.

Your menu opens, room number filled in

Photos, prices and the same item numbers as your printed menu.

Guest picks food and confirms

They can add a note like "less spicy". One tap sends it to your kitchen.

Guest sees every step, live

Accepted, preparing, ready. No more "Is my food coming?" calls.

Food is served to the room

Complete orders, the right dishes, the right room. Every time.

About one minute from scanning the code to sending the order.

WHY OWNERS SWITCH

Paper menus and phone orders are quietly costing you sales.

When ordering is a hassle, guests order less, or not at all. Make it effortless, and they order more.

With paper menu cards	With QR ordering
 No photos. Guests play it safe and order what they already know.	 Every dish has a photo, so guests order what looks good, not just what they know.
 Drinks and desserts are buried on the back page.	 Drinks and desserts are one tap away, so every order gets bigger.
 Guests must call reception. Many simply don't bother, especially late at night.	 No phone call needed, so guests order more often, at any hour.
 Foreign guests struggle to order over the phone.	 Foreign guests just point and tap. No language barrier.
 Misheard orders mean wrong dishes, wasted food and unhappy reviews.	 The right dish to the right room, every time. Fewer complaints, better reviews.
 Every price change means reprinting the menu cards.	 Change a price or hide a sold-out dish in seconds. Nothing to reprint.

Your menu becomes a salesperson in every room, 24 hours a day.

Every guest can see every dish, at any hour, without picking up the phone.
